Sec. 18.02 An apprentice's advancement and wages may be delayed for failing to comply with any of the requirements in Sec. 18.01.

ARTICLE XIX. ON-THE-JOB-TRAINING PROGRESSION SCHEDULE

Sec. 19.01 0 - 1000 HOURS/FIRST PERIOD

All applicants entering the Program are required to attend a three-week Introductory Training class (except as described in section 4.07). After completing Introductory Training, apprentices will be familiar with the following basic skills: climbing; knot tying; rigging; first aid and CPR; materials used in line construction; rubber protective equipment, such as rubber gloves, sleeves, hoses, etc.; and basic electrical theory. When assigned to an employer, an apprentice is allowed to climb and work on secondary voltages up to 500 volts. The apprentice should be provided or have access to rubber gloves and sleeves - to be used when necessary to work secondary up to 500 volts, setting of poles and working around equipment that could become energized. The apprentice should at all times work under direct supervision of a journeyman lineman and be instructed in the safety rules and proper use and care of all line tools. All starting apprentices should be allowed to climb on wood poles, steel structures and de-energized lines, but are not allowed to work within reach or falling distance of conductors energized at more than 500 volts.

Sec. 19.02 1000 - 2000 HOURS/SECOND PERIOD

The apprentice is allowed to perform all types of line work on de-energized lines to perfect his/her skills in working aloft. The apprentice should be continually instructed in the proper use of safety equipment as his/her crew encounters different working situations. The apprentice is, however, still limited to working on energized lines or equipment, only up to 500 volts, and not within reach or falling distance of conductors energized at more than 500 volts.

Sec. 19.03 2000 - 4000 HOURS/THIRD-PERIOD – FOURTH PERIOD

The apprentice may begin to work on energized lines in excess of 500 volts, under the direct supervision of a journeyman lineman, based on his/her progress and experience after the first two steps of the Program. However, the Subcommittee, at its discretion, based on each individual apprentice's progress on the job, may delay this progression. The apprentice's employer, foreman, and journeyman lineman on the job will monitor the type of work the apprentice is allowed to do, in accordance with the apprentice's ability. The apprentice's progress on the job will be evaluated and reported to the ALBAT Subcommittee on forms provided by the ALBAT Program. In the Sixth District of the IBEW, the apprentice is still restricted to working on voltages of up to 500 volts, unless special exemptions are made by the Subcommittee; however, Local Union 1393 apprentices, Local Union 51 apprentices, Local Union 193 apprentices, Local Union 702 apprentices, Local Union 9 apprentices, Local Union 145 apprentices, and Local Union 196 apprentices can work in excess of 500 volts under the direct supervision of a journeyman lineman.

Sec. 19.04 4000 - 7000 HOURS/FIFTH PERIOD – SEVENTH PERIOD

The apprentice shall continue to work under the direct supervision of a journeyman lineman to perform all types of line work required of a journeyman lineman. As the apprentice's skills improve, he/she should be given more responsibility in planning and laying out work, as his/her ability progresses. By the seventh-six months, the apprentice should be given the lead on selected jobs to develop his/her leadership ability. It is the practice of the ALBAT Joint Apprenticeship and Training Committee to rule that an apprentice be "promoted normally". This allows an apprentice to be promoted from step to step, provided the requirements listed in Sec. 18.01 are met, unless otherwise restricted by the Committee.

Sec. 19.05 This policy has been formulated and adopted by the American Line Builders Joint Apprenticeship and Training Committee as a guideline to all parties of interest who are involved in the on-the-job training of apprentice linemen. However, when apprentices are employed by a contractor in an area where the safety rules exceed or limit the voltages stated in this policy, the more stringent safety rules shall apply.

Article XX. FIELD AND CLASSROOM TRAINING

Sec. 20.01 Apprentices shall (at apprentice's expense) attend all field and/or classroom training as assigned.

Sec. 20.02 When field and/or classroom sessions are missed, without approval of the Subcommittee and/or Director's office, an apprentice shall be subject to suspension from the Program or other action the Subcommittee may decide.

Sec. 20.03 When field and/or classroom sessions are missed, the apprentice is required to submit a written excuse to the Director's office, stating the reasons for the absence.

Article XXI. UNIT ASSIGNMENTS AND EXAMS

Sec. 21.01 Apprentices are required to complete and return each unit of study to their instructors in accordance with the Promotion Schedule on the following page.

ALBAT PROGRAM - LINEMAN PROMOTION SCHEDULE SUMMARY

This promotion schedule is summarized from the current Apprenticeship and Training Standards, and is intended to be used only as a guideline indicating the course material, accumulated hours, course material payments and related training required for promotion eligibility.
